January, 2014-present Special Adviser to the Associate Provost
University Outreach and Engagement, Michigan State University
- Provides advice to the Associate Provost on a variety of matters.
- Represents the Associate Provost at meetings and with groups as assigned.
- Serves on the core administrative planning team of the office of University Outreach and Engagement with the Associate Provost, Assistant Provost for University Community Partnerships, and Operations Manager.

April, 2013-present Director, National Collaborative for the Study of University Engagement
University Outreach and Engagement, Michigan State University
January, 2008-March, 2013 Co-Director, National Collaborative for the Study of University Engagement
University Outreach and Engagement, Michigan State University
- Provide joint leadership for the National Collaborative for the Study of University Engagement (NCSUE) at Michigan State University. The Collaborative promotes original scholarship on the role of engagement in institutions, faculty careers, scholarship, and public life. I jointly supervise a staff of researchers, and manage departmental budgets, resources, and planning.
- Leader of NCSUE institutional studies, measurement, and benchmarking activities. Current project leader and original member of the research team that developed the Outreach and Engagement Measurement Instrument (OEMI), an online faculty survey aimed at collecting data about outreach work for three purposes: institutional planning, information for external stakeholders (e.g., legislature, alumni, the public), and cross-institutional comparisons. Contributing to development of research questions and methodology, instrument and database design, iterative pilot testing process, and institutional rollout, including public awareness and training efforts. Participate in the utilization of OEMI and other institutional data in the preparation of University-wide NCA accreditation and Carnegie classification self-studies. Developing partnerships with and an OEMI platform for use at other institutions, in order to create a national data warehouse on outreach and engagement to be managed at MSU. In October 2010, introduced an online guest account request system resulting in requests from representatives of 14 universities by February 2011.
- Contributor to NCSUE research and inquiry efforts. Developed a study of the impact of engagement on scholars and scholarship, including qualitative research design and conducted original faculty interviews (project continued by colleague). Serving as senior series co-editor of the Transformations in Higher Education: The Scholarship of Engagement book series, with the MSU Press. Serving as an associate editor for the Journal of Higher Education Outreach and Engagement and guest editor of a 2012 special issue. Serving as a section co-editor for the International Journal for Research on Service-learning and Community Engagement.

- Contributor to NCSUE reflection, learning, and professional development programs. Provided overall leadership to the planning and implementation of the Engagement Scholarship Consortium's 2011 National Outreach Scholarship Conference (NOSC). Contributor and instructor for MSU's Graduate Certification in Community Engagement. Have provided consultation to the team developing MSU's Tools of Engagement undergraduate online learning modules. Served on steering committee for the Engaged Scholar Speaker Series (2005-2011 & 2015) and Global Engagement Speaker Series (2015-present). Serves on UOE Working Groups for Educational Programs, Policies and Practices, and Measurement, Documentation, and Reporting (facilitator). Provided leadership to UOE Awards and Recognitions mini-team.

- Provides consultations to other universities, particularly those in the process of creating central offices of outreach and engagement.
- Represents the Collaborative, University Outreach and Engagement, and the Michigan State University in national organizations, networks, and projects to further NCSUE advocacy and advancement activities.

| December, 2004-
present | Director, Communication and Information Technology
University Outreach and Engagement, Michigan State University |

- Leading a University department charged with responsibility in the following areas: web site and information systems development, publications, public/media relations, and event management. The Department supports the office of University Outreach and Engagement, outreach initiatives of academic units and faculty from across campus, and public access to the resources of the University as a whole. Supervises a staff of twelve, including professionals and practitioners representing a wide range of disciplines. Manages departmental budgets, resources, and planning.
- Develops, prepares, and provides offices of the President and other University administrators with concise briefing materials on outreach and engagement activities as drawn from the OEMI and other University data sources.
- Publishes the Engaged Scholar Magazine and E-Newsletter.
- Plans and supports outreach and engagement awards programs including MSU's Outreach Scholarship Community Partnership Award and MSU participation in the C. Peter Magrath / W.K. Kellogg Foundation University Engagement Award (selection committee).
- Provided administrative leadership for the Michigan Science Olympiad State Tournament (2011-present).
- Facilitates and encourages research and development toward the application of emerging information and communication technologies for the advancement of community-engaged scholarship and outreach.
- Participant in University Outreach and Engagement management team and strategic planning process.
- Represents the unit and advocate for the outreach mission of the University on campus-wide committees related to technology.

| June, 2002-
November, 2004 | Assistant Director, Outreach Research and Technology
University Outreach and Engagement, Michigan State University |

- Co-led a provost-funded initiative aimed at the development of a campus-based information technology usability and accessibility research center. Responsibilities included writing proposal for feasibility study, research and site visits to other centers across the U.S., leading a faculty and staff committee that drafted the mission statement of the proposed center, and coordinating architectural and technological development. The effort culminated with the hiring of a director and opening of the MSU Usability and Accessibility Center in 2004.
- Co-authored a white paper regarding needed changes to the MSU web services for online and distance education.
- Responsible for the technological infrastructure of the University Outreach office. Made technology-related purchase decisions. Supervised staff of three graduate assistants who provide all tech support, equipment purchase research, network management, and some training to the unit. Coordinated the work of consultants, regular employees, graduate assistants, and undergraduate students engaged in website development and content production.
- Represented the unit and advocate for the outreach mission of the University on campus-wide committees related to technology.

- Acted as unit liaison to the planning of the "Meet Michigan" faculty development program 1999-2003.

June, 1998-   Coordinator, Outreach Research and Technology
May, 2002   University Outreach, Michigan State University
- Served as one of the principal developers the MSU Statewide Resource Network website, a public portal into the University's outreach programs and resources across the state (http://msustatewide.msu.edu). Contributed to information architecture, usability evaluation, editorial process design, staffing, coordination of consultant work, and market research.
- Served as one of the principal developers the Spartan Youth Programs website, a public portal into the University's program offerings for Pre-K children through twelfth grade students (http://spartanyouth.msu.edu). Contributed to information architecture, usability evaluation, editorial process design, staffing, coordination of consultant work, and market research.
- Developed and managed the faculty/staff training program for use of the MSU Course Load, Instruction, Funding, and Modeling System (CLIFMS) outreach module, a system used to report faculty noncredit instructional activities.
- Assessed the hardware, software, and networking needs of the University Outreach staff, investigated new communication and management technologies, and made recommendations.

May, 1994-   Graduate Research Assistant
May, 1998   University Outreach, Michigan State University
- Led the development of a web-based replacement for the University's annual outreach data collection process. In conjunction with the MSU Office of Planning and Budgets and Libraries, Computing, and Technology division, I participated in the design and development of the CLIFMS outreach module.
- Designed a database of statewide faculty outreach activities in support of a publication for University stakeholders. Began adapting the database for use in the development of a website to provide public access to information about MSU outreach across Michigan (which became the MSU Statewide Resource Network website).
- Participated in an evaluative study of efforts to promote change in MSU's organizational culture with regard to university outreach. Reviewed and collected data from university-wide annual planning documents (all college reports for three target years). Conducted narrative analysis of the data exploring how outreach was being defined, the extent to which it was discussed, and how it was situated among unit priorities as a reflection of culture change at Michigan State during the years of the W.K. Kellogg Foundation – MSU Lifelong Education Grant (1988-1995).
- Designed a database, conducted interviews, and prepared an administrative report as part of an evaluation of a seed grant program for faculty outreach projects (All University Outreach Grant Program).
- Served as a proceedings rapporteur at the Michigan State University Capstone Symposium of the W.K. Kellogg Foundation – MSU Lifelong Education Grant in East Lansing, Michigan (1995).
- Developed and maintained the first website for the University Outreach office.
- Managed outreach electronic mailing lists; scanned of higher education for new trends, programs, and issues relating to outreach and distance learning; provided web and internet support for marketing campaigns.

June, 1992-   Graduate Research Assistant
August, 1994   Institute for Research on Teaching Adults, Michigan State University
Participated in a variety of research projects studying adult cognition and development. Prepared interview guidelines and contributed to a theoretical argument for using biographical forms of inquiry in studying adult learning across the life-span. Conducted literature reviews on adult learning within cultural institutions and in the academic disciplines. Supervised by Professor Steven Weiland.

January, 1993-   Masters-Level Practicum Student (Undergraduate Academic Advising)
May, 1993   College of Communication Arts and Sciences, Michigan State University
Supported the undergraduate academic advising office during the University's transition from the quarter to semester system. Provided student advising and career placement and counseling referrals; utilized MSU student information system; helped maintain major progress and degree certification documentation.
